

-- ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A device acquires information relating to payment particulars and for transfer of this information to a server center of a banking organization. The device includes an apparatus for reading the payment particulars, a central processing unit to which the reading apparatus is connected, a modem for establishing a telephone link with the server center, and an apparatus for dialing telephone numbers such that the dialing apparatus is associated with the modem. --